The Florida Center for Fiscal & Economic Policy

The Florida Center for Fiscal and Economic Policy (FCFEP) is a newly formed independent, nonprofit, non-partisan organization engaged in research and education on state fiscal and economic matters with particular attention to their impact on low and moderate/middle income Floridians and local small businesses owned by, and employing, Floridians.

The Center provides reliable and timely analyses of Florida's budget and tax policies and promotes greater state government fiscal accountability, improved services and an enhanced quality of life for all Floridians.

FCFEP's unique resources and capabilities gives it the ability to assist organizations, program advocates, policy makers and the public with accurate information on important topics in a way that both budget experts and average citizens can understand.

The FCFEP also works closely with advocates for at-risk populations and experts on fiscal and financial matters in analyzing state budget constraints and opportunities. Through partnerships with grassroots organizations and mutual collaborations, FCFEP serves partner organizations by unraveling the maze of state budget and tax data to better assist them in the pursuit of their policy objectives.

The Center is currently conducting statewide networking activities among advocacy and analytical groups as it expands its reach across Florida. Initial funding support has come from the Stoneman Family Fund, Annie E. Casey and W.K. Kellogg Foundations.
